Special June Alert: Announcing the Better Buildings Accelerator

We have great news to share this month out of Washington, D.C. The U.S. Department of Energy has launched two Better Buildings Accelerators that will help bolster residential energy efficiency across the nation. Elevate Energy is proud to be one of the many partners involved in the Home Energy Information Accelerator, which aims to make energy data more accessible to potential home buyers.

Like the inroads we’ve already made with the Value for High Performance Homes Campaign, the Home Energy Information Accelerator will help us move the market forward by bringing together the disparate groups that are needed to develop, expand, and make home energy data available, including national organizations, federal agencies, and regional, state, and local leaders in real estate and energy efficiency.

Specifically, the Home Energy Information Accelerator will work to:

• Expand the pipeline of reliable home energy information
• Develop streamlined systems that leverage existing data standards
• Promote targeted outreach and training efforts for key stakeholders
• Create resources to help other communities nationwide
• Recognize champions and highlight their successes

Read more about this groundbreaking initiative. You can also access and share this Home Energy Information Accelerator fact sheet.

If you have any questions, please contact us at Info@ElevateEnergy.org. Stay tuned for your regular June alert later this month!

You’re receiving this update because you have expressed interest in the Value for High Performance Homes Campaign. We'll continue to alert you with news and developments. Please feel free to share; others can sign up to receive regular alerts here and you can follow the conversation on Twitter at #VisibleValue